Wood Lake has been telling stories for more than 35 years.

During that time,
it has given form
and substance to the words, songs,
pictures and ideas of hundreds of storytellers.

Those stories have taken a multitude of forms –

Wood Lake uses the ancient and enduring art form of storytelling to connect, educate, and inspire readers of every age and culture.

Donald Schmidt has had a love affair with the Bible for many years. Rather than something to be worshipped, he sees it as an amazing tool and way to learn more about God and ourselves. He holds MDiv and DMin degrees, as well as undergraduate degrees in theology and Jewish studies. He has been in active ministry in a variety of churches in both Canada and the USA for almost 40 years and, in his spare time, likes to work with wool – knitting, spinning, and weaving.

Easter for Progressive Christians

A Five Session Study Guide

Donald Schmidt

This guide does not set out to “prove” or “disprove” that Jesus physically rose on Easter Sunday. Instead, it invites participants to engage with the biblical stories of Christ’s resurrection to try to understand what the gospel writers meant to tell us, what they wanted us to take from these stories. They did not set out to prove a point of history; they wrote them down because these stories had transformed their own lives, and the lives of many others at the time.

Birth of Jesus for Progressive Christians

A Five Session Study Guide

Donald Schmidt

What if the Christmas story is not really what we think it is? What if things happened differently than tradition has maintained over the centuries? What if the biblical account differs – sometimes quite substantially – from the story most of us know from the nativity plays we participated in as children, or that our own children or grandchildren participate in? And what if the truth the authors of those stories are pointing to is not that Jesus was born in a miraculous way, but something that goes much deeper?

Death of Jesus for Progressive Christians

A Five Session Study Guide

Donald Schmidt

The resurrection of Jesus is, of course, the most important event for Christians, yet the events that led up to it are almost as important. According to all the biblical sources and a wide variety of non-biblical texts, Jesus was put to death because the message he brought threatened the powerful of his era. There are many more nuances than that, of course, and lots of ways one can spin the story to make one’s point, but the simplest truth is that the gospel message was too toxic for the imperial stomach to bear.

Responsive Prayers Years A and C

Responsive Prayers

For Every Week of the Church Year
Year B, Revised Common Lectionary

David Sparks

By inviting the congregation to participate in the worship prayers, leaders will nurture the growth and engagement of everyone in the gathered community.

Responsive Prayers offers an entire year's worth of responsive prayers that can be adapted to a variety of settings and circumstances. This collection includes full prayers for the Call to Worship, Opening Prayer, Words of Assurance, Offering Prayer, and Commissioning, as well as an outline for the Pastoral Prayer, for each Sunday of the lectionary year. Some weeks include additional prayer options. Includes a scripture index. Authorization to reproduce and freely adapt all the prayers in the collection for use in worship in the local congregation is included with the purchase of the book.

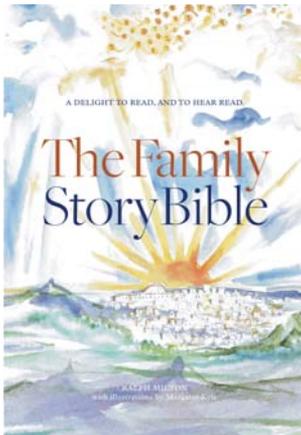

Praise for volumes in the previous series.

An eminently useful collection of worship resources tailored for the lectionary year. – The United Church Observer

These are truly wholesome and appropriate responsive prayers that engage the pray-ers... [They are] composed with an eye to the contemporary religious climate and are truly "about us" and our beliefs as a worshipping body of Christ's faithful. – review posted on Amazon.com

David Sparks received his theological education in England and in Canada and has served for 38 years with The United Church of Canada.

The Family Story Bible, 3rd Edition

Ralph Milton and Margaret Kyle

From its first publication, The Family Story Bible has held a special place among children's Bibles. Its use of inclusive language for God, its emphasis on stories that depict a God of love, its commitment to telling the stories of the women as well as the men in the Bible, its positive and life-affirming tone – all of these things have made The Family Story Bible a modern classic of children's religious literature. Every bit as marvellous as the text by Ralph Milton, Margaret Kyle's art – bright and colourful, full of wonder and joy – pulls it all together and helps bring the stories to life in the imaginations of children and adults alike.

Imagine a Joyful Economy

James Gustave Speth & Peter Denton

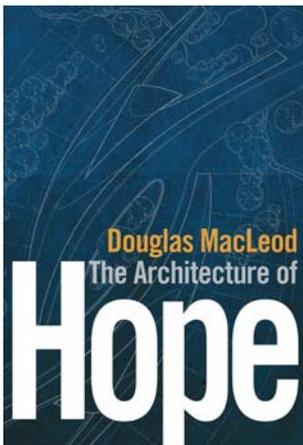

James Gustave (Gus) Speth and Peter Denton – world experts in their respective fields – are two voices to which we should listen.

Co-chair of the Next System Project, Speth argues that despite victories in environmental law, habitat protection and conservation, the momentum of the destructive path we are on, driven by profit and the desire for perpetual growth, has only accelerated toward planetary catastrophe.

“We desperately need a new American Dream,” says Speth, “a dream of an America where the pursuit of happiness is sought not in more getting and spending, but in the growth of human solidarity, devoted friendship, and meaningful accomplishment; where the average person is empowered to achieve his or her human potential; where the benefits of economic activity are widely and equitably shared; where democracy and civic participation flourish at all levels; where the environment is sustained for current and future generations; and, where the virtues of simple living, community self-reliance, good fellowship, and respect for nature predominate. These traditions do not always prevail today, but they are not dead. They await us, and indeed they are currently being awakened across America.”

Looking at Christianity’s role, Denton sees both complicity in the destruction of the natural world, and the positive role it could still play. “Faith is entirely personal and individual, but it can also be collective and communal. Faith can mobilize whole communities into action, to ends which are both practical and which bring glory to God – and which transform our world in the direction of a sustainable future, one better choice at a time.”

The Architecture of Hope

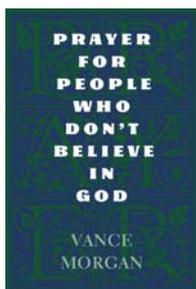

Douglas MacLeod

“Our communities are overpriced, poisonous, overcrowded, unhealthy, wasteful energy pigs – not because they have to be but because it suits the vested interests that build, operate, and control them...” Strong words spoken by a character in The Architecture of Hope, Doug MacLeod’s compelling glimpse into the near future. And yet this is not, at its core, a work fiction.

The Architecture of Hope offers an immediately compelling glimpse into the future, a near future only 15 years hence, in which we can live and work together to build better communities for tomorrow. Set in the fictitious town of Hope in the Okanagan Valley, it imagines the idea of cooperative communities where people can produce more energy than they use; purify more water than they pollute; grow more food than they consume; and recycle more waste than they produce, with technologies that already exist, or that will be within our grasp in a few years. Most important of all, the people of the community own and profit from these resources. The Architecture of Hope depicts a way of living that is decentralized, re-localized, and regenerative.

As one of the characters notes, “The big idea is that we could restore rather than destroy; we could produce rather than consume; and we could purify rather than pollute – not just the Earth but our bodies and minds as well.”

Prayer for People Who Don't Believe in God

Vance Morgan

Many progressive Christians struggle with prayer – or, at least, with the kinds of prayer they are often exposed to: shouted, whispered, forceful, timid, begging, and demanding; everything from essay length unscripted petitions, to poetry read from a book, to rote recitations that no one pays much attention to, to pronouncements, to communications in a “prayer language.”

This is not an academic book, nor a “how-to” document. Rather, it poses questions that are important to progressive Christians and to the “spiritual but not religious.” Working only with the assumption that prayer might have value even for those who are not sure what, or who, or even if God is, this book is about opening oneself to the “possibility of God.”

Power for Life

Inspirational Guidance for Daily Living

David Sharp

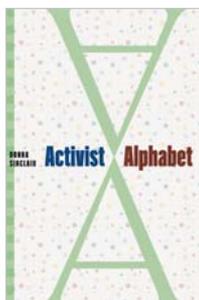

There are many ways to grow spiritually. Learning, especially spiritual learning, involves an enduring change in behaviour.

The questions and reflections in this book are meant to encourage spiritual growth in daily increments. In other words, this book reflects a slow and steady approach to spiritual growth and learning, with each daily encouragement connected to the day before.

Activist Alphabet

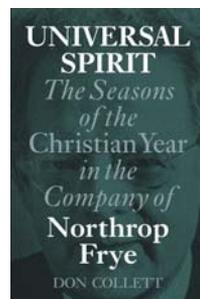

Donna Sinclair

This book is aimed at people of faith who find themselves involved in resistance of any kind; but especially against those projects that hurt creation. Like pipelines or large dams or massive quarries. It will have 26 sections, each under a different letter of the alphabet. Some sections may emphasize more than one word. For instance C is for Community, Congregation, Courage. In the case of multiple readings each one will be shorter, of course.

Universal Spirit

The Seasons of the Christian Year in the Company of Northrop Frye

Don Collett

To a church that increasingly addresses itself to biblically illiterate people, to people who may have little or no church experience, and to those who simply call themselves spiritual-but-not-religious, Don Collett's look at the Christian year inspired by the work of the great Canadian scholar Northrop Frye offers a priceless gift.

Read, Wonder, Listen

Stories from the Bible for Young Readers

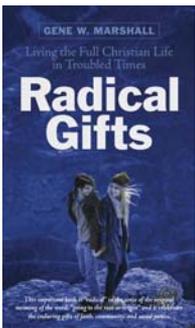

Laura Alary and Ann Sheng

“Every person who tells these stories does it in a slightly different way. And every person who reads these stories hears something a bit different. So even though these stories are very old, they are also always new.” So writes Laura Alary in the Introduction to the new children’s story Bible Read, Wonder, Listen. Alary combines her gift for telling the biblical stories, with historical research, contemporary concerns about language, and a compassionate and inclusive theology, making Read, Wonder, Listen a perfect children’s Bible for progressive Christians.

Radical Gifts

Living the Full Christian Life in Troubled Times

Gene W. Marshall

“We are living in the midst of a turning point in the history of Christianity that is more radical than the Reformation period, perhaps as radical as the birth of Christianity itself. This emerging form of Christianity is so new that it does not seem to be Christianity at all to many people.” Progressive Christians will be immediately drawn to Marshall’s discussions of “Spirit” sickness and how to heal it, his reflections on the nature of God, the relevance of the life of Jesus for people today, and the importance of community and of ethical thinking, which are fresh and challenging.

Superabundantly Alive

Thomas Merton’s Dance with the Feminine

Susan McCaslin and J.S. Porter

In these early though fruitful days of Merton scholarship, we are well-advised to lift our heads from our desks briefly in order to reflect on Thomas Merton the human being, along with our dedication to his writings and influence. How often have those of us who have devoted our minds to his thought also gathered to listen to the stories told by those who knew him ... the carefully drawn portraits of his “uncaged mind,” his ability to “see around corners,” his prophetic understanding of social inequities, and his profound concern for the America that he saw well ahead of what we observe around us today.

Revelation for Progressive Christians

A Seven Session Study Guide

Donald Schmidt

More material has probably been written about the biblical book of Revelation than the rest of the Bible combined – or at least it can seem that way. What’s more, people who write or talk about Revelation often have a passion that defies all logic. They speak vividly and forcefully about plagues, and judgments, and the end of the world. All interesting themes – but are they the real concern or message of Revelation?

The Gift of Story

Ralph Milton

In The Gift of Story, Ralph Milton romps through a lively reflection on what stories mean to humans, “the storytelling animal,” how we can all use stories to enrich our lives, and rejoice in the complementary role that stories and the logic of science play in our lives.

The Gift of Story picks up where Milton’s live StoryFest events leave off. Those events – led by gifted musicians, artists, and storytellers – were designed to provide a spiritual “shot in the arm, focusing on evocative Bible stories and personal faith experiences.” The 10 StoryFest videos and other downloads, available at www.woodlakebooks.com/storyfest, help people come together to enjoy the rich and varied stories of the Bible, and discover ways those stories connect with their lives.

Our Spirits Aligned

Aboriginal Voices of Healing and Reconciliation

JoAnn Restoule, Wedlidi Speck, Karen Close

How does one define reconciliation in a way that gives meaning to those who have experienced and suffered from colonization and to those who have not? Is it even possible? This book presents a collection of storytellers who have set out to do just that. As Wedlidi Speck states in his introduction to this important book: “By sharing the stories in this book, we hope each reader will find a role in reconciliation by placing all these stories together in a mixing bowl of sorts and coming up with a broader view that will heighten our country’s cultural awareness, deepen Canadian sensitivity, sharpen Canadian agility and grow cultural safety in all our country’s homes, villages and work spaces.”

Sorry

Why Our Church Apologized

Carolyn Pogue, Bill Phipps, Maggie McLeod, & Stanley McKay

Sometimes it is not so hard to say sorry. Sometimes it is very hard. What matters most is meaning it when you say it. This is the story of why the United Church people apologized for the suffering caused by the Indian Residential Schools.

Faith Forward

Volume 3

Editor/Compiler: David Csinos

In one of his best-known songs, Bruce Cockburn sings about “lovers in a dangerous time.” Well, there’s no doubt that our world is under siege and that we are living in a dangerous time. With massive crises threatening life all over our planet – economic crises, social crises, ecological crises, the list goes on and on – our faith can’t afford to ignore the reality of our diverse and fragile world. Our faith needs to move or inspire us to get our hands not just dirty, but downright bruised and bloody as we work against the tremendous forces of hatred, death, and suffering in our world.

That’s what this third volume in the “Faith Forward” series is about. Like the other books in this series, Faith Forward Volume 3 collects the wisdom of some of the leading “thinkers” and “shakers” and “movers” in the arena of ministry with children and youth, including Alaa Basatneh, Brian D. McLaren, Soong-Chan Rah, Waltrina N. Middleton, Daniel White Hodge, Lisa and Mark Scandrette, Marcia J. Bunge, Leslie Neugent, Ivy Beckwith, Eboo Patel, Almeda M. Wright, and Amy K. Butler.

The Season for Strawberries

A Novel

Dorothy Brown Henderson

A heartwarming read!

Meet Aleda Vastag – a feisty, single, female pastor who wears red rubber boots, keeps a cranky old horse as a pet, and doesn’t mind a good drink, sometimes even in the church basement!

Newly established as the parish’s first female pastor, Aleda struggles with feelings of inadequacy and questions the relevance of her ministry as she faces all the characters and challenges, both large and small, that define village life. What happens when the strawberry social is threatened, and when a tragedy shakes the village to its core? The Season for Strawberries is a heartwarming and heart-breaking tale brimming with all the joys and sorrows of real life.

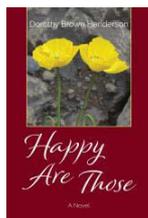

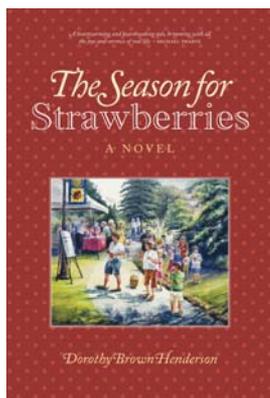

Dorothy Brown Henderson lives in Exeter, Ontario, Canada. The Season for Strawberries is her first novel, although she has many previous publications including a cookbook, Loving it Local: Preparing delicious fresh local food, published in 2014.

CPR for the Soul

Reviving a Sense of the Sacred in Everyday Life

Tom Stella

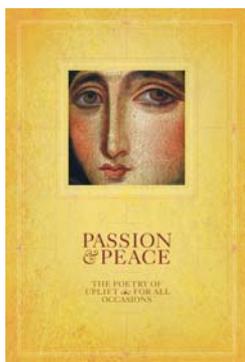

"The fact that you are not dead is not sufficient proof that you are alive!" So begins Tom Stella's insightful, important, and inspiring exploration into the life, death, and rebirth of the soul. He shares the deep, eternal wisdom that knows that the lines separating the sacred and the secular, time and eternity, humanity and divinity, are false. Or, at the very least, blurred. God, by whatever name, is found in the midst of everyday life, work, and relationships. All people, all creation, and all of life is holy ground. This remarkable book offers a revival for the soul, a reminder that "we are one with something vast" – a "something" that "is not a thing or a person, but a spiritual source and force at the heart of life."

Passion & Peace

The Poetry of Uplift for All Occasions

Compiled by Diane Tucker

All cultures we know of, at all times, have had poetry of one sort or another – chants, songs, lullabies, epics, blessings, farewells – to mark life's most important moments, transitions, and transformations. Ever since our species began using words, we have arranged them to please, to experience the pleasures, the fun, of rhythm and rhyme, repetition and pattern. Passion & Peace: The Poetry of Uplift for All Occasions was compiled to speak directly to this deep human need, with 120 of the best poems from almost as many classical and contemporary poets, and including a thematic index. A welcome addition to any library and the perfect gift for any occasion, Passion & Peace is a heartwarming, uplifting, and inspirational volume.

ReImagine

Preaching in the Present Tense

Mark Whittall

"A leader, an entrepreneur, and a scientist with a pastor's heart leads us on a journey of discovery." This book is about what happens when we let the stories of our lives intersect the stories of our faith tradition. What emerges at that crossroads is preaching, which speaks in the present tense. Mark Whittall weaves our adventures with those of our biblical predecessors, creating new stories that are both relevant and engaging.

Creative Aging

Stories from the Pages of the Journal “Sage-ing with Creative Spirit, Grace and Gratitude”

Carolyn Cowan & Karen Close

Creative Aging is a powerful new social and cultural movement that is stirring the imaginations of communities and people everywhere. Often called Sage-ing, it takes many forms: academic, social and personal. Sage-ing is about seeking - satisfying inner gnawing and transforming it to knowing and action. Aging can be alchemy when one allows the realisation that to know thyself and contribute that knowing to our culture is indeed one of life’s highest purposes. That knowing brings the gratitude, grace and integrity that a life deserves. The creative journey into self is a strong aid to health and wellbeing for the individual and to our culture. Creative Aging brings together more than 50 essays and galleries of images that showcase the power of the imagination expressed and enjoyed.

Creating Change

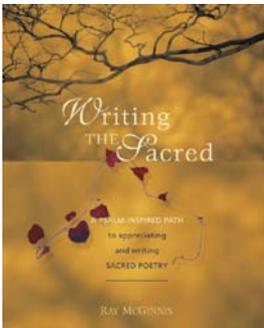

The arts as catalyst for spiritual transformation

Keri K. Wehlender

Music, dance, drama, visual art, writing – what role do the arts play in our spiritual life? Some people believe the arts are essential to their spiritual practice because they bring moments of insight and transformation to their journey.

Creating Change explores the many ways the arts cultivate spiritual depth and transformation. Stories from artists and congregations reveal how the arts breathe new life into prayer, worship, theological reflection, and the work of justice. It looks at how the arts allow us to express our spirituality with an individuality and depth that truly celebrates our connection to God.

The Bully and Me

Stories That Break the Cycle of Torment

Helen Carmichael Porter

The stories in The Bully and Me are first person accounts by both victims and bullies. The victims try to change the situation and usually, but not always, succeed. The stories are descriptive narratives of what happens to real people. They are based on Porter’s observations, countless interviews, personal experience, and imagination. The book explores the idea that victims and bullies are two sides of the same coin and that the healing of both lies in dealing with this paradox.

Precious Days & Practical Love Caring for Your Aging Parent

James Taylor

Caring for an aging parent involves more than finding a care facility or dealing with legal and financial matters. It means feeling the frustration of always being "on call" if you live close by, or feeling helpless and guilty because you live far away and can do relatively little. It means riding the emotional roller coaster of having your roles reversed.

Oil & Water

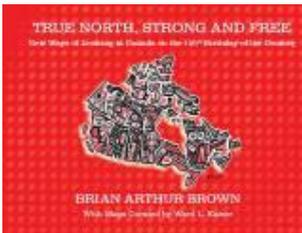

Two Faiths: One God

Amir Hussain

Listen to any news broadcast today and the message comes through loud and clear: Islam is a religion of violence and behind every Muslim there lurks a potential terrorist. Islam is a threat to values of the Christian West. They are like oil and water. Clearly, they don't mix.

Oil & Water: Two Faiths One God confronts these popular perceptions head-on. With keen insight and gentle understanding, it explores the differences between Christianity and Islam, as well as the many things these two enduring faith traditions hold in common - including, first and foremost, their belief in and desire to be faithful to the one, true God; their shared roots and scripture (from the Jewish faith); and the spiritual values of peace and social justice.

How Maps Change Things

A conversation about the maps we choose and the world we want

Ward L. Kaiser

This full-colour book is about politics and faith and the values we hold. It's about human relations, social justice, peace, budgets, and environmental concerns. It's about that "Aha!" moment when we realize that maps are loaded not just with data, but with meaning, with the map maker's perceptions and prejudices about what's important and what's not. Ultimately, this book is about becoming aware of how we shape and use maps and how they in turn shape us, so that we can begin to reflect on and choose the kind of world we want. The book includes an experiential Study Guide perfect for use by adult and youth study groups of all kinds.

My Year of Buying Nothing

Lee Simpson

Lee Simpson may seem like an unlikely candidate to don the mantle of anti-consumerist prophet. She is, after all, the former publisher of Canada's most successful women's lifestyles magazine, Chatelaine. But that is just the first of many surprising things about her new book My Year of Buying Nothing.

Simpson invites readers into her world to witness first hand the struggles she faced, the decisions and compromises she had to make, and the epiphanies and wisdom she won during her year-long attempt to shed her "consumer" skin and live a more sustainable, more authentic, more earth-friendly life.

Jesse's Surprise Gift

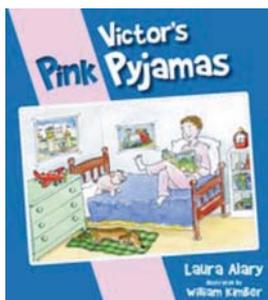

Laura Alary

Illustrated by Ariane Elsamak

What Jesse wants most is a guitar. But it seems beyond his reach. His mom can't afford to buy him one, but she gives him an ocarina instead. Jesse is grateful and disappointed at the same time, so he goes out for a walk. Along the way he meets others who need his help. He gives what he can and learns that we can't always predict the results of our actions.

Author Laura Alary's charming story is full of unexpected twists and is based on a well-loved tale from India about giving (and receiving). Ariane Elsamak's whimsical illustrations draw us into the story, as we journey with Jesse and find ourselves surprised at how open-hearted giving is a gift in itself.

Victor's Pink Pyjamas

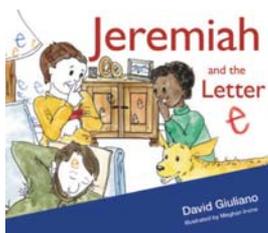

Laura Alary

Illustrated by William Kimber

Victor loves his pink (accident-in-the-washing-machine) pyjamas. But not everyone does. His father and sister think pink is just for girls. But Victor knows that lots of wonderful things are pink – like strawberry ice cream, bubble gum, and walrus basking in the sun – and they're not just for girls. What will happen when Victor outgrows his pink pyjamas and needs a new pair?

This engaging and humorous book explores what it is like to make choices that are different from the cultural norm.

Is That Story True?

Laura Alary

Illustrated by Margaret Kyle

In words and images sure to delight children and adults alike, Is That Story True? explores the kinds of "truth" that live within the stories we tell. As Maggie listens to a story about a little girl who grew up on the prairies, about a ruler who cut a knot in two, about a shepherd who went looking for a lost sheep, about a king who made a foolish wish, and finally, about a giant who lived in a beautiful garden, she discovers that some stories are true because they actually happened.

Tommy's Angel

Donna Sinclair

Illustrated by William Kimber

When Tommy's dog, Paddy, dies, Tommy is sad. He doesn't want another dog. He just wants Paddy. Then an angel visits Tommy. The angel reminds Tommy that he was a great dog owner, and that Paddy loved him very much – as much as Tommy loved Paddy. Tommy finds that his heart can hold even more than his enormous love for Paddy. This gentle and honest look at the loss of a loved one ends with “I wonder” questions for children, and a section for adults on talking to children about loss.

The Alligator in Naomi's Pillow

David Giuliano

Illustrated by Marlene McBrien

There's an alligator in her pillow and she needs mom and dad to make it go away. Over a few nights, Naomi's parents groggily try different approaches to rid Naomi's pillow of the alligator, but in the end it is Naomi who comes up with a way to face her scary nocturnal visitor. Naomi's parents gently and sleepily allow her to explore her fear of the alligator in a supportive way. What can be seen as a troubling and upsetting event (for both parents and child) is sensitively and realistically dealt with by a deft and light hand.

How Do I Pray for Grandpa?

Laura Alary

Illustrated by William Kimber

Miriam's Grandpa gets ill one day and everyone in the family is worried. Miriam asks God to make Grandpa better, but he stays sick. During this time, Miriam finds that there are many ways to see and speak to God, and that prayer may not be answered in the way we would like it. She learns that prayer can be like many things – bubbles in the wind, or water being soaked up by plant roots, and that prayer can always comfort, whether we are aware of it or not. This is book is a gentle exploration of how children might pray, and how adults can help them understand some of the mystery of prayer.

Adventures of the God Detectives

Nancy C. Reeves & Linnea Good

Adventures of the God Detectives is about a group of young friends who form a club to discover the variety of ways God invites us into a relationship. The book contains seven stories for children aged six to ten years old, and is illustrated with black and white line drawings. Each story includes “Notes for Adults,” and “Questions to consider with Children,” designed to help parents talk with children about spiritual experiences. Adventures of the God Detectives chronicles the discoveries Tabitha, Emma, Jacob, and Fu-Han make, as they meet a native elder and a Franciscan monk, encounter a little sister's “imaginary companion,” interpret a dream, wrestle with their conscience, read the Bible, and pray.
